

Hello Voters of Tennessee,

My name is Jay Bowman, and I am running president of the United States. I am writing to ask for your support and your vote in the upcoming election.

The pathway as an entrepreneur has led me through peaks and valleys, presenting invaluable lessons along the way. These experiences have instilled in me a deep appreciation for fiscal prudence and resourcefulness, driving me to set ambitious goals, devise strategic plans, and create effective budgets. Cultivating strong collaborations with colleagues and seeking counsel from mentors have been vital components of my journey, yet the responsibility of making sound decisions has always rested on my shoulders as a business owner.

Deficit spending is a grave threat to our children's future. It occurs when the government spends more money than it collects in revenue, leading to a growing national debt. This debt will eventually need to be paid off, and it is our children and future generations who will bear the burden. As the debt grows, so does the interest we owe, diverting resources away from crucial investments in education, infrastructure, and healthcare. This short-sighted approach not only undermines our children's economic opportunities but also jeopardizes their ability to achieve the American Dream. We must prioritize responsible fiscal policies and work towards a balanced budget to secure a brighter future for our children.

Both political parties have engaged in excessive deficit spending while in power, accumulating an average of $1 trillion in deficit spending every 150 days, over the last eight years. This alarming rate of spending, if represented by stacking $100 bills, would create a pile reaching a height of 637 miles. It is imperative that we break free from this reckless spending cycle and work together to implement responsible budgetary practices for the sake of our nation's future generations. This is unsustainable!

Voting for a third-party candidate in this presidential election is not a wasted vote, especially when it can help bring attention to crucial issues like uncontrolled spending in Washington. By supporting a third-party candidate who prioritizes fiscal responsibility, you send a strong message to both major political parties that this issue matters to you and other voters. Furthermore, a strong showing for a third-party candidate can lead to increased visibility and influence in future elections, paving the way for more diverse voices and ideas in our political landscape.

I understand that your vote is precious, and you want to make sure that it is not wasted. By casting your vote, you are participating in a civic duty that preserves the foundations of our society and safeguards our liberties. Even a single voice can ignite change and inspire others to join in on a cause. I want to assure you that a vote for me is not a wasted vote. Vote No! stop spending money we do not have.

Thank you for considering me as your president. I humbly ask for your vote and your support in the upcoming election.

Sincerely,

Jay J Bowman
